

Rogue Station Companies Inc./Everdime launches new onboarding to Web3 solutions for Small and Medium-Sized Enterprises

Web3 refers to the next iteration of the World Wide Web incorporating novel technologies including blockchain. Adopting Web 3 is imperative for organizations to remain competitive in the global economy. NFTs, tokens, and blockchain can provide numerous advantages, such as complete tracking of the organizational supply chain, improved efficiency, enhanced customer experience, create a new sales channel, digitalize assets, and increase profitability over time. In order to remain relevant in this fast-changing world of digital currencies and applications, embracing Web3 offers an organization the opportunity to build a new foundation for success. By being proactive now and understanding the potential of NFTs, tokens, and blockchain optimized for long-term growth, an organization will be well positioned with cutting edge technologies as new opportunities become available in the future.

In 2023, the Web3 sector is expected to be worth more than six trillion dollars, according to Market Research Future. From financial services to ecommerce and retail, entertainment and media, IT, Government, and energy: Almost every sector is expected to adopt Web3 in the very near future.

Sandor Miklos, CEO for Everdime said, “We’re excited to offer this new service to our clients. It’s a great way to help small and medium size enterprises get up and running utilizing Web3 quickly and cost effectively. We have a team well experienced in finance, blockchain integration and smart contract development giving Everdime a leg up on the competition and providing sustainable revenue growth opportunity for the company. Stay tuned for more exciting news.”
